Art inspired by Mecanoo buildings

Saturday 10 October 2015

Most stalkers are terrible, but sometimes there are lovely exceptions. Mecanoo architects have an artist groupie, Giuseppe Gallo, who translates their buildings into awesome works of graphic art. On top of that he is so generous to share the high res with the world. If you like these works as much as we do please find the link here below to download.

Pattern is defined as a graphic scheme characterized by a repetitive structure, where regularity of relationships created between individual objects is perceived as a whole. Many objects in nature are defined by patterns, some are clear as felines skin, others are complex, such as fractal geometry of plants. In art as in architecture Pattern becomes a tool to Information theory defines redundancy such as the constant repetition of a series of messages always equal or perfectly predictable, chaos as a succession of unpredictable messages.

Architects exploit patterns to define environments, generate order and communicate information. In the current landscape one of the practices that does it best in the opinion of Gallo is the Dutch office Mecanoo, founded in Delft in 1984. Gallo loves how their project are able to communicate emotion, developing identity of places and social connection.
